

True Potential Pictet Growth

31 March 2025

Fund objective

The Fund seeks to deliver growth over a rolling 3 year period net of fees.

March Update

Developed market shares posted steep declines, mainly due to the imposition of Trump's tariffs on autos, steel and aluminium, and the expectation of a broader tariff announcement in early April. US equities fared the worst against the backdrop of rising stagflation concerns. Emerging Market (EM) equities outperformed, supported by fresh stimulus measures in China. In fixed income, US Treasuries outpaced UK Gilts and German Bunds, with global credit and high-yield bonds posting losses. Elsewhere, gold rallied as investors sought safe-haven assets.

The True Potential Pictet Growth Fund declined 5.90% (net of fees). The allocation to thematic equity funds was detrimental, with exposures to the premium brands, robotics and digital themes detracting the most. Conversely, the Fund's modest allocations to the Pictet Asia ex-Japan Fund and Hong Kong-listed technology stocks delivered the best equity returns overall yet also still posted negative absolute returns. In fixed income, the Fund's preference for corporate bonds over government bonds detracted. The allocation to EM local-currency bonds delivered gains, helped by a weaker US dollar. In alternatives, gold was a standout performer, as safe-haven assets outperformed. In addition, the Fund benefited from partially hedging US dollar exposure back to sterling.

Risks

The following are some of the key risks associated with investing in this Fund. For a complete list of risks, please refer to the Fund's prospectus, available at www.truepotential.co.uk/fund-documents. Please be aware that there is no guarantee that capital will be preserved.

Risk type	Description
Investment Fund Risk	This Fund invests into other investment funds, they may invest in different assets, countries or economic sectors and therefore have different risk profiles not in line with those of this Fund.
Performance Risk	Investment objectives express an intended result but there is no guarantee that such a result will be achieved. Depending on market conditions and the macro-economic environment, certain investment types and styles may perform better than others and investment objectives may become more difficult to achieve.
Emerging Market Risk	Investments in emerging markets may involve greater risks due to political and economic instability, and underdeveloped markets and systems.
Counterparty Risk	There may be cases where the organisation from which we buy a derivative, or an asset, fails to meet its obligations. The Fund's cash deposits are also subject to counterparty risk.
Derivative Risk	The Fund is entitled to use derivatives. Derivatives may not achieve their intended purpose. Their prices may move up or down significantly over relatively short periods of time which may result in losses greater than the amount paid.
Operational Risk	The Fund faces non-market risk, relating to purchasing, holding and servicing the Fund's assets.
Credit Risk	Where the Fund invests in bonds, there is a risk the bond issuer may fail to meet its repayments. Changes in interest rates, inflation and the creditworthiness of the bond issuer may also affect the bond's market value. This risk is particularly relevant where the fund invests in bonds with a lower credit rating.
Exchange Rate Risk	The Fund may invest in securities not denominated in GBP. The value of your investments may be affected by changes in currency exchange rates.
Investment Trust Risk	Investment trusts and closed ended funds may borrow to purchase additional investments. This can increase returns when stock markets rise but will magnify losses when markets fall. The value of an investment trust or a closed-ended fund moves in line with stock market demand and its share price may be less than or more than the net value of the investments it holds.
Liquidity Risk	Certain market conditions could make sufficiently liquid assets difficult to sell quickly at a fair price. This could result in an unpredictable fall in the value, and overall liquidity of the Fund.
