

True Potential Cautious + Portfolio

Portfolio Objective

The objective of the True Potential Cautious + Portfolio is to provide investors with a way to achieve their investment goals. The Portfolio offers exposure to a select group of investment partners and a range of risk profiles (Defensive to Aggressive), whilst remaining within the Cautious risk profile. We review the Portfolio monthly and, if necessary, rebalance to the allocation of styles that we believe offers the best opportunity for growth within the Cautious risk profile. The Portfolio aims to produce a higher risk-adjusted outcome at a lower average cost, compared to an equally-weighted model of Cautious funds.

Risk Profile: Cautious

The Cautious Investor may be sensitive to short-term losses. A Cautious Investor's potential aversion to losses could compel them to shift into a more stable investment if significant short-term losses occur. Analysing the risk-return choices available, a Cautious Investor is usually willing to accept somewhat lower returns in order to assure greater safety of his or her investment.

Investment Commentary

The True Potential Cautious+ Portfolio produced a return of +1.11% for the month of August, net of Portfolio OCF.

August began with a sharp sell-off in global equities, led by the Japanese market falling by 20%. The move was triggered by a combination of factors, including a weak US employment report stoking recession fears and monetary tightening in Japan prompting a rapid reversal of carry trades funded in Yen. However, evidence of US economic resilience, particularly consumer spending, and indications from the Federal Reserve that moderating inflation would likely allow interest rate cuts to begin in September, provided relief and equities recovered fully, finishing the month positive. The US was the strongest performing market, with returns broadening out away from the technology sector, positive for a diversified US exposure. UK equities were weaker, partly due to strength in Sterling as UK economic data pointed to encouraging momentum. Positive returns were seen across global sovereign and corporate bond markets as yields moderated.

The True Potential Goldman Sachs Balanced fund provided the strongest returns against this backdrop, supported by the strong performance of its global equity allocations, which benefitted from positioning within US companies and from a bias towards higher quality companies. Within fixed income, the fund's allocation to US government bonds provided positive returns as bond yields fell over the month.

Over the month, no changes were made to manager allocations within the Portfolios with the investment team believing positioning was optimal. Although no changes have been made to manager allocations, the True Potential manager cohort has been adjusting positioning. Examples include additions to US and UK equities in favour of European and Japanese companies, as well as increasing exposure to UK government bonds within fixed income.
